

Inside The Oils

With all the hype surrounding oils, we decided to contact Mark Zaic, who manufactures Legend Performance ZX2 (formerly Produmax) in order to test this product on our 2003 800 REV X. We were impressed when Mark challenged us to use the oil and tear the engine down at the end of the season. Furthermore, he agreed to live with our findings, good or bad! So we put it to the test. We discovered they've accomplished blending a mineral-based two-cycle oil with synthetic-plus performance in their Legend ZX-2 and ZX-2R oils. While most oil companies and OEM manufacturers blend their oils to achieve a certain level of engine reliability for warranty purposes and a "price point" for attractive sales, Legend Performance has blended their oils with optimum performance and reliability in mind.
